Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month

Know the Signs, Take Action

March is Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month, a crucial time to raise awareness about one of the most challenging cancers to detect early. Often called the “silent killer,” ovarian cancer presents subtle symptoms that can be mistaken for less serious conditions.

Common Symptoms:

- Persistent bloating

- Abdominal or pelvic pain
- Feeling full quickly when eating
- Frequent urination

If these symptoms persist for more than two weeks, it's important to speak to your GP. Early detection significantly improves outcomes, but there is currently no routine screening test for ovarian cancer. That's why awareness and proactive health checks are essential.

Certain risk factors—such as age, family history, and genetic mutations (e.g., BRCA1/2)—can increase the risk of developing ovarian cancer. If you're concerned, we offer personalised risk assessments and health consultations to guide you on the next steps.

This month, let's prioritise women's health by spreading awareness and encouraging early intervention. If you have concerns or want to discuss your risk factors, book an appointment with us today.
